

TRUCE:

On Dec 21st 2012, a galactic alignment will occur coincident with Perihelion, our closest approach to the sun. This may mark the most significant gravitational moment on Earth in the last 65,000 years...

Something may happen to us that has never happened before. I know not what that is; though many possibilities have been put forth.

I am more concerned about what has been happening to us over the past few decades, as cultures, and as a species. By whatever path of coincidence one chooses to believe, this cosmic event and our self induced conflicts appear to be climaxing at nearly the same moment.

If we hope to attenuate our part of this dance towards devastation, I believe something has to happen that has never happened before: That being an attempt to cooperate on a planet wide scale: A truce before war explodes upon us all.

A TRUCE: between the left and the right, between democrats and republicans; between the rich and the not rich; between Sunnis and Shiites, the Hatfields and the McCoys; between every human enemy and adversary; whether we have forgotten why we don't get along, or if the 'reasons' are still fresh in our minds. - A Truce long enough to assess our collective situation on Earth. -

Then we could consciously decide if we should just try to kill each other, or decide not to try to kill each other. - "I have seen the enemy, and he is me..."

Truce:

"Politics is Obviously Not The Answer: Anarchy is not the answer. Divided nations are not the answer: - The Answer is a Vigorous Cooperation and Regenerative Economics. - By the people, and For the people. There are a million nuances, but only one path (A Conservation-Based Economy) that might help save us from ourselves... This is perhaps as factual as gravity... and just a miracle away"... - E.M.

I am among those who might teach Regenerative Economics, and facilitate Cooperative Problem Solving Experiments. But nobody's knocking down my door to do either of those, so we're employing the universal language of music as the best way to try to get these messages out: <http://jki.jordanmacarus.com/trucevol1.html>
- This 'show' is already Live, and ready to go on the road...

There are several related papers, audio streams and short videos at EnviroMonster.com for those with the time and inclination. - To summarize those: We have engineered our way through space, and the inner space of nano-technology. - I believe we have the ability, and the knowledge to Engineer an Economy that is geared for the long-term.. - For that to happen soon, the super-wealthy and a majority of the Investment Community would need to feel inspired to invest for the long term... - That inspiration is all around us: Resource depletion, countries around the world in economic crisis, escalating violence across the globe and here in the US, and the ongoing volatility and unpredictability of 'natural disasters'... "The Earth is Speaking; We Just have to Listen."

One of my sincere hopes (which most curmudgeons and 'realists' think will never happen) is to meet with API (The American Petroleum Institute), and other big economic players to discuss the possibilities of their partnership in a long-term Regenerative Economy... {I am well aware that the odds of our 'succeeding' are small. Of course, if we don't try something, the odds of success are zero...}

The Truce Project is an effort to help bring these conversations into the vernacular: – The idea that we can re-evaluate what Economics is, and what it could be. – It could be something dramatically more vibrant and beneficial than it is now. It could be the structure that motivates and sustains us for working to regenerate and maintain the ecological fabric that supports life as we know it. – And the idea is to create (globally) something on the order of a billion jobs...

"You may say I'm a dreamer, but I'm not the only one." "There are many here among us" with their hands in the earth actively maintaining, repairing and regenerating the elements we need for the present and for the future. – In subsequent papers I will detail how some of these sapient leaders are achieving positive outcomes, without blaming anyone or anything else. – It seems very clear that the fate of our collective mortality is connected to our economic practices. It is, perhaps, a simple yet unprecedented shift in our thinking that can enable us to cooperate on the scale that could make all the difference in this life and all the others... - This is a multi-denominational, and a multi-national concept." All of us together under the same sun."

Join or support us if you can.
Good luck to all of us,
Truce...

PS. – A personal note to the super wealthy of this world:
I sincerely invite anyone to contact me. I don't want your money. I just think you all can help make this kind of thing a reality far faster than we can possibly achieve without you. – I have no interest in vilifying the rich, class warfare, or anything else that divides us. – Nor in endangering my son's father. - We are where we are now; and we are all becoming aware that only a comprehensive approach can enable our species the chance to survive, sanely, into the future. If you care about your kids, your grandkids, anything or anyone that is indigenous to this earth, please contact me. If you are concerned about your wealth, I believe investing in a new Conservation-Based Economy is the best way to maintain that as well, regardless of the nature of your current investments. It can all start with a conversation... "What is happening on Earth now is nobody's fault and it's everybody's fault. – It's nobody's responsibility and it's everybody responsibility" - E.M. - Truce

Jordan Macarus
Art and Science in Concert
Facilitator for Cooperative Problem Solving Experiments
Self Proclaimed Regenerative Economist and Practitioner
BS Physics
Earthling - Relevant Resume available by request.